PHARMACEUTICAL

Labels used for pharmaceutical applications play a crucial role in ensuring the safety, authenticity, and regulatory compliance of pharmaceutical products. These labels are designed with specific features such as tamper-evidence, serialization, and barcoding to enable tracking throughout the supply chain and to prevent counterfeiting.

Recommended Collections:

TMX TC TG HS TFLX

AERONAUTICAL

Labels used for aeronautical applications are essential components in ensuring the safety, maintenance, and efficiency of aircraft systems and components. These labels are designed to withstand extreme environmental conditions such as high temperatures, pressure differentials, and exposure to various chemicals and fluids encountered during flight. They are often made of durable materials like aerospace-grade adhesives, weather-resistant films to ensure longevity and legibility in challenging operational environments.

Recommended Collections:

TAMPER EVIDENT COLOR LABELS

Our TamperColor label collection is a polyester material label commonly used for security purposes. They have a tamper-evident design that makes it obvious if someone has attempted to remove or alter the label by leaving a VOID word release residue pattern over the surface on which it was applied.

The TamperColor labels can be customized with different, shapes, and sizes to fit specific needs. Additionally, these labels can be used in conjunction with other security measures, such as serial numbers, barcodes, and QR codes.

These labels can also include customization such as the company logo. They are pen/ marker writable, which can help to also prevent counterfeiting of the label itself. They are recommendable to prevent unauthorized access to sensitive areas or equipment.

TAMPER EVIDENT NO RESIDUE LABELS

Non-residue security labels are a crucial component in safeguarding products, documents, and assets against tampering, theft, and unauthorized access. These labels utilize specialized adhesives that bond securely to surfaces without leaving behind any residue upon removal, ensuring that the labeled item remains undamaged and pristine. Non-residue security labels are commonly used in industries such as electronics, pharmaceuticals, and retail to protect high-value items and sensitive information.

They feature tamper-evident designs, such as destructible materials or void patterns, which reveal evidence of tampering if removed. Additionally, these labels may incorporate overt or covert security features such as serial numbers, or QR codes, further enhancing their effectiveness in deterring tampering and counterfeiting. By providing a reliable and non-destructive means of security, non-residue labels offer peace of mind to businesses and consumers, ensuring the integrity and authenticity of protected assets.

INDUSTRIAL/ HIGHEST RESISTANCE SECURITY LABEL

Labels used in industrial applications are indispensable elements in the intricate network of safety protocols and operational efficiency within each respective industry. These labels serve as crucial markers, ensuring the seamless functioning of industrial systems and components under the most challenging conditions encountered. Crafted from resilient materials such as aerospace-grade adhesives and weather-resistant films, these labels are engineered to endure extreme environmental factors like high temperatures, pressure variations, and exposure to corrosive chemicals and fluids. Their robust construction guarantees both longevity and legibility, vital attributes in the demanding operational environments of industrial applications. Industrial security labels go beyond mere identification; they are repositories of essential information vital for each industry's safety and compliance. From detailed component specifications and maintenance schedules to delineating operational limits and safety instructions, these labels provide indispensable guidance for maintenance personnel and general staff alike. Moreover, through the incorporation of advanced features such as barcodes, QR codes, or serializations, these labels facilitate seamless inventory management, traceability, and lifecycle tracking of critical industrial parts and equipment. In the tightly regulated and safety-driven industrial realms, these labels stand as guardians of integrity, ensuring that systems operate with precision and reliability, even amidst complexities and uncertainties inherent in some industrial scenarios.

HOLOGRAPHIC SECURITY LABELS

Holographic security labels represent a cutting-edge solution in the realm of anti-counterfeiting and authentication. These labels utilize holographic technology to embed intricate three-dimensional images and patterns that are virtually impossible to replicate with precision. Serving as a visually striking deterrent to counterfeiters, holographic security labels offer a multi-layered defense against fraudulent activities. They not only enhance the aesthetic appeal of products but also provide a tangible indicator of authenticity and quality assurance. The complex holographic images within these labels are challenging to duplicate, making them an effective tool in safeguarding products, documents, and assets against illicit replication. Additionally, holographic security labels often incorporate additional security features such as tamper-evident elements or covert identifiers, further bolstering their effectiveness in combatting counterfeiting. Whether used in industries such as pharmaceuticals, electronics, or luxury goods, holographic security labels provide a robust defense against counterfeiters, instilling confidence in consumers and businesses alike while preserving brand integrity and value. Additionally, holographic security labels offer a wide range of customization options.

CUSTOM COLOR DELAMINATING LABELS

Labels that delaminate serve as an innovative security measure to protect products, from tampering and unauthorized access. These labels are designed to separate into layers or sections when removal or tampering is attempted, revealing a clear indication of interference. This tamper-evident feature provides a visible and irreversible sign that the label has been compromised, serving as a deterrent to potential counterfeiters or unauthorized individuals, and cannot be resealed. Delamination labels are commonly used in industries where product authenticity and integrity are paramount, such as pharmaceuticals, electronics, and high-value goods. By incorporating this security measure, businesses can enhance consumer trust, mitigate the risk of counterfeit products entering the market, and safeguard against potential safety hazards associated with tampering. Delamination labels offer a practical and effective solution to protect assets and maintain the integrity of products throughout their lifecycle, ensuring peace of mind for both businesses and consumers.

COLOR CAN BE ANY PSI!

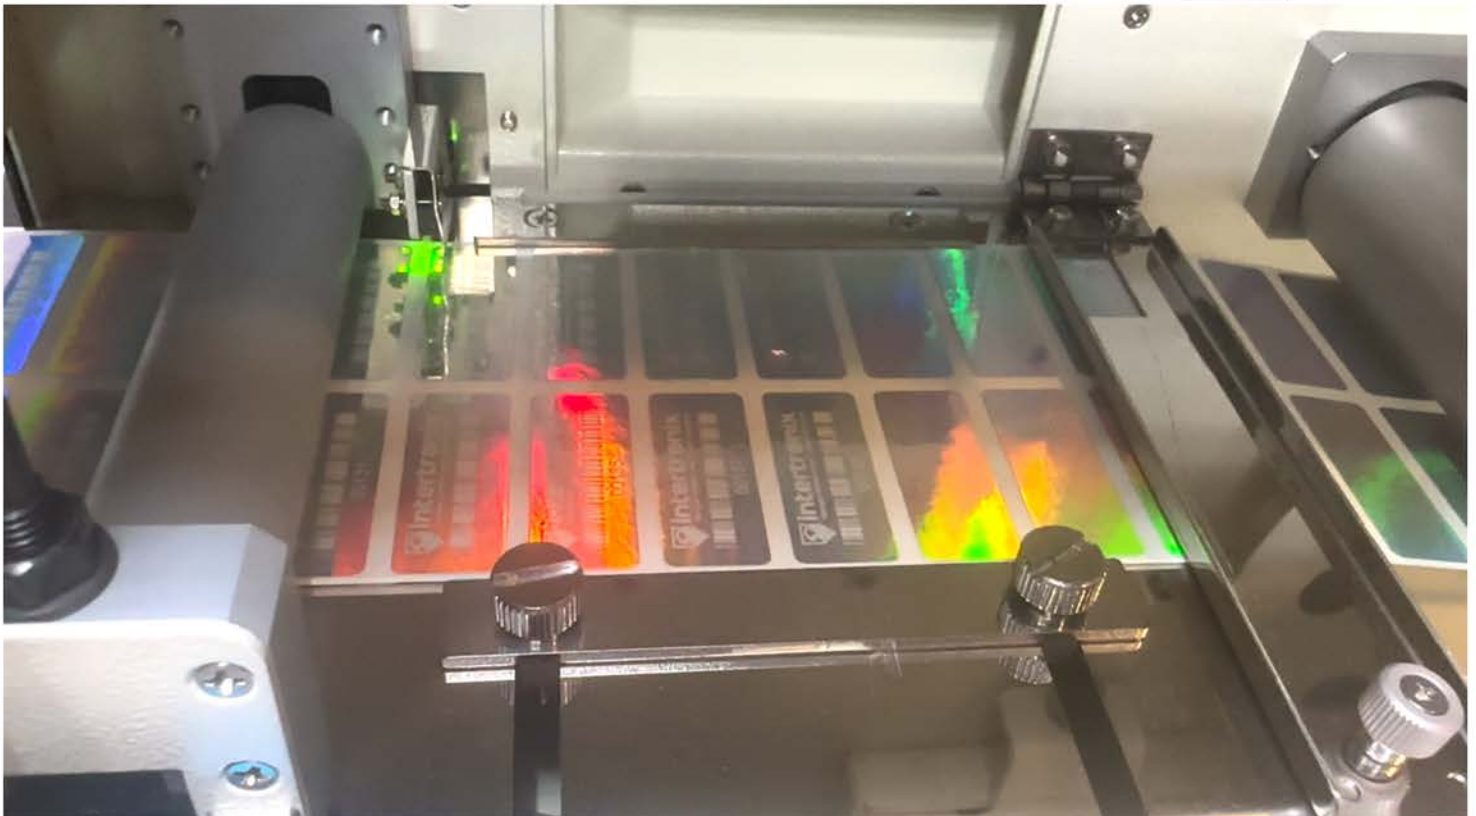

Lasered / Demetalized Labels

AVAILABLE IN ALL METALLIZED LABELS

Demetalized labels are a sophisticated security solution employed to protect products, documents, and assets from counterfeiting and unauthorized tampering. These labels feature portions where metallic elements have been selectively removed or altered via laser, creating a distinctive visual effect that is difficult to replicate. The demetalization process results in areas of the label that appear transparent or holographic, adding a layer of complexity and uniqueness to the design. This unique characteristic serves as a visible indicator of authenticity and acts as a deterrent to counterfeiters. Demetalized labels are commonly used in industries such as pharmaceuticals, cosmetics, and luxury goods, where brand integrity and product authenticity are paramount. By incorporating demetalized labels into their packaging or security measures, businesses can enhance consumer trust, protect their brand reputation, and mitigate the risk of counterfeit products entering the market. Additionally, demetalized labels can be customized with additional security features such as serial numbers, barcodes, or holographic elements, further enhancing their effectiveness in combating counterfeiting and ensuring product integrity.

This Process is Available for any of our Metalized Labels: TVP, TC, TG & PA

HOLOGRAPHIC STRIP

This versatile label comes with a holographic strip which makes it a lot harder to replicate, adding an extra layer of security.

COMPLEX BACKGROUND

Besides the complex layers-composition, each one of these layers is crafted for maximum security. The complex geometrical pattern is one more of the components, that prevent easy counterfeit.

SECURITY SLITS

The security slits of this label are intended to prevent the labels to be transferred from one surface to another. If the label removal or tampering is attempted the slits would make the label be torn apart.

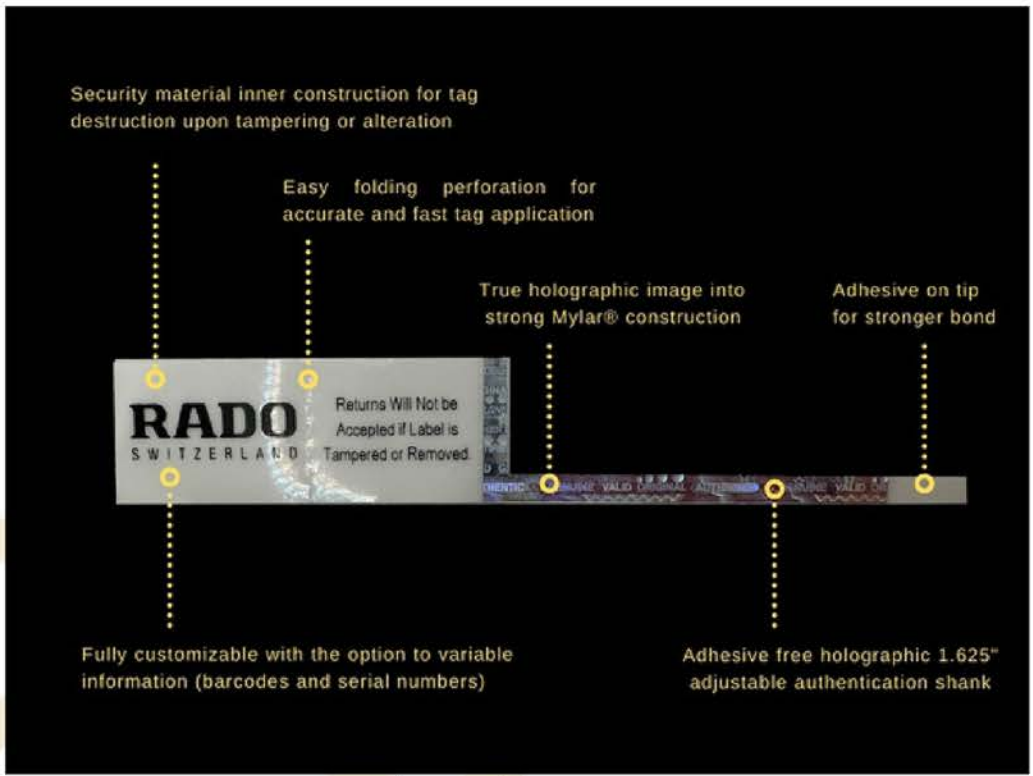

CUSTOMIZATION

While these labels come already with a good amount of security features they can also be customized both for added security as well as for branding purposes. They can carry both logos and, variable information such as: barcodes, serialized numbers and qr codes.

Jewelry Tags

Introducing Jewelry Security Tags:

In the realm of identifying precious items, numerous tags suffice for the task. However, many of these tags are susceptible to removal or replacement without leaving a trace of tampering. Enter our innovative security jewelry tags, designed to unmistakably reveal any attempted tampering while retaining all the essential features of conventional tags. Sporting a sleek white surface, these tags offer seamless labeling for pricing, materials, style, or other pertinent information. Despite their small size, they remain discreet, ensuring they don't overshadow your elegant jewelry pieces. Enhanced with an elegant holographic strip, these tags can be effortlessly affixed by wrapping them around your items.

With these user-friendly tags, your organization system shines as brilliantly as your jewelry, with the added assurance that labels cannot be removed without clear signs of tampering.

Our jewelry tags serve as an invaluable tool for managing product returns and warranties, offering a unique solution with customizable features to align with your design, branding, and security objectives — all at a remarkably low cost.

These jewelry security tags can be tailor-made for any specific application, boasting text, logos, numbers, and/or consecutive barcodes with scratch and chemical resistance.

DESTRUCTIBLE LABELS

These labels are specifically designed to fragment into small pieces or become irreversibly damaged when removal or tampering is attempted, leaving behind clear evidence of interference. This tamper-evident feature serves as a visible deterrent to potential counterfeiters or unauthorized individuals, providing a tangible indication that the label has been compromised. Destructible labels are commonly used in industries where product authenticity and integrity are paramount, such as pharmaceuticals, electronics, and high-value goods. By incorporating destructible labels into their packaging or security measures, businesses can enhance consumer trust, mitigate the risk of counterfeit products entering the market, and safeguard against potential safety hazards associated with tampering. Destructible labels offer a practical and effective solution to protect assets and maintain the integrity of products throughout their lifecycle, ensuring peace of mind for both businesses and consumers.

Water & Moisture Indicating Labels

Water-indicating labels are innovative tools designed to detect and visually signal exposure to water or moisture. These labels consist of a sensitive material that reacts to the presence of moisture by changing color, alerting users to potential damage or tampering. Commonly used in electronic devices, medical equipment, and sensitive packages, water-indicating labels provide an added layer of protection against water damage and ensure the integrity of products during storage, transit, or use. With their simple yet effective design, these labels offer a cost-efficient solution for monitoring and safeguarding valuable items from the harmful effects of moisture, ultimately helping to maintain product quality and reliability.

Security Tape

CUSTOM OPTIONS AND STOCK OPTIONS

Security tape is a vital tool for protecting assets and sensitive information by deterring tampering and unauthorized access. Its tamper-evident features, such as patterned designs and residue-producing adhesives, make any breach attempt immediately visible. Additionally, its strong construction resists tearing, ensuring the tape's integrity. Ideal for boxes and packaging that needs to be transported and ensure that it is not opened while in transit. Whether used in retail, logistics, or sensitive environments, security tape offers a cost-effective solution for maintaining security and peace of mind.

CUSTOM EMBOSSED HOLOGRAMS

Custom embossed holograms are sophisticated security features that add an extra layer of protection to various products and documents. By incorporating intricate designs and unique patterns, these holograms create visually stunning and difficult-to-replicate images that serve as a reliable indicator of authenticity. The embossing process further enhances their security by imparting a tactile element, making them even more challenging to counterfeit. These holograms are customizable, allowing businesses to incorporate their logos, serial numbers, or other personalized elements, thereby enhancing brand visibility while ensuring the integrity of their products. They can incorporate effects hard to replicate as well as micro and nano features hidden within the label's design. Whether used to authenticate high-value merchandise, secure identification documents, or deter counterfeiting, custom-embossed holograms offer an effective and aesthetically pleasing solution for safeguarding against fraud and unauthorized duplication.

CUSTOM SHAPED LABELS

Custom-shaped labels can resolve specific security application challenges. Integrating additional security features but made to fit precise devices. Unlike traditional rectangular labels, these labels can be tailored to fit unique shapes and contours, allowing businesses to create a cohesive solution for their specific application. Additionally, they can carry printed information: whether it's a logo, product name, or special message. Additionally, these labels can be manufactured with a variety of materials and adhesives to ensure they withstand specific environmental conditions and adhere securely to surfaces. From food and beverage packaging to promotional materials, custom-shaped labels offer a creative and effective solution.
